Theories of Civil Society, Philanthropy, and the Nonprofit Sector

Political Science 236
Spring 2007-08
5 units

Instructors:

Rob Reich
reich@stanford.edu
650 723-2608
Dept. of Political Science
Office #420
Office hours, Tue., 2-4pm

Bruce Sievers
bsievers@stanford.edu
Office 205
650-724-3706
Haas Center for Public Service
Office hours: Tue., Thur.12:30 – 1:30 and by appt.

Teaching Assistants:

Megan Tompkins
megan.tompkins@gmail.com
School of Education
By appointment

Course Description:

The historical development and modern structure of civil society, with special attention to philanthropy and the nonprofit sector. What is the basis of private action for the public good? How are charitable dollars distributed and what role do nonprofit organizations and philanthropic dollars play in a modern democracy? How do non-governmental organizations operate domestically and globally? Readings in political philosophy, political sociology, and public policy.

This course will provide an in-depth understanding of the nonprofit sector, including its historical development, structural elements, and modern operation as a driver of social change. By the end of the course, students will have knowledge of the history and structure of civil society, defining characteristics of the modern nonprofit sector, and key challenges facing nonprofit organizations today, including current issues in large philanthropic foundations and global civil society.

Reading Assignments:

Required texts: (available in bookstore)

George Bernard Shaw, Pygmalion and Major Barbara (Bantam Classics, 1992).

Format and Grading:

The course will feature a mixed lecture and seminar format, allowing for maximum student interaction and probing of the ideas contained in the readings and presented by the instructors.

Course Requirements and Assignments:

Class participation [15% of grade]
Class participation can take a variety of forms, ranging from the obvious (e.g., talking intelligently in class) to the less obvious (e.g., volunteering to co-teach). At a minimum, it is crucial that you come to class on time, having done the reading, and prepared to talk and engage your fellow classmates. Because the class will facilitate discussion every week, adequate preparation, willingness to contribute, and capacity for empathetic listening are all required. You are also required to attend a section every week. A portion of your grade will be based on your participation.

Writing [85% of grade]
The writing requirements of the course differ for undergraduates and graduate students. Undergraduates with significant background in political theory (and especially those currently or considering writing a senior thesis in political theory) may choose to fulfill the graduate student writing requirement, but only with permission of the instructors).

Undergraduate writing requirement
1. For undergraduates, this course is writing-intensive and fulfills the “Writing in the Major” (WIM) requirement for political science majors. Each student is expected to complete three papers, two 2-3 pagers and a larger paper of 12-15 pages. The first two papers will have assigned questions and ask you to explicate and interpret some particularly important concept or reading passage. The third paper is a straightforward seminar paper. In keeping with the requirements of WIM courses, revisions will be required.

Graduate student writing requirement
One long seminar paper required, on a topic of your own choosing. The guidelines are purposefully minimal so as to allow you to write on a topic relevant to your own scholarly interests. We expect only that the paper incorporates perspectives from political theory that we have addressed in the course, or if it does not, that you consult with us about your plans by mid-quarter.

Both undergraduates and graduate students are expected to submit paper proposals.

For both undergraduates and graduate students, please note that late assignments will only be accepted if prior arrangements have been made with the instructors.

2. Finally, students are expected to make contributions to a web-based discussion forum, the course blog. To be discussed in more detail in class.
Please note that paper extensions require prior arrangements with the instructor. There will be no exceptions to this policy, barring absolute emergencies. Late assignments will be penalized one grade per day.

Grading:
The class is available for pass/no pass or for a grade. If the grading option is chosen, grades will be computed from the following:

- Participation: [15%]  On time attendance, adequate preparation, perceptive oral participation, and empathetic listening.

- Assignment 1 [50%]  Long Essay (25% each draft)

- Assignment 2: [15%]  Short essay 1

- Assignment 3: [15%]  Short essay 2

- Assignment 4: [5%]  Comments on course blog
Course Schedule

Tuesday, April 1
Introduction to the class

No required readings for the first session

I.  History and Evolution of Civil Society and Philanthropy
What are the defining elements of civil society?  Both contemporary and historical theorists have posited a wide range of features defining what we know today as civil society--the world comprising nonprofit organizations, the “third” or “voluntary” sector, and nongovernmental organizations.  Following this development through a range of traditions and perspectives, we can begin to discern several key normative and institutional elements that constitute civil society--a coherent framework of a public sphere operating between the individual and the state.

Thursday, April 3
What is civil society?

Reading
Michael Edwards, Civil Society, pp. vi-ix and 1-36  (Reader)

Tuesday, April 8
Historical Development of Civil Society in the West

Reading
Antony Black,”Concepts of civil society in Pre-Modern Europe” from Civil Society: History and Prospects, pp. 33-38 (Reader)
Kevin Robbins, “The Nonprofit Sector in Historical Perspective: Traditions of Philanthropy in the West”, Ch. 1 in Powell and Steinberg
“The Statute of Charitable Uses”  (Reader)

Thursday, April 10
Emergence of Civil Society and Philanthropy in the United States

Reading
Robert Gross, “Giving in America:  From Charity to Philanthropy,” pp. 23-48 in Friedman and McGarvie (Reader)
Peter Dobkin Hall, “An Historical Overview of Philanthropy, Voluntary Associations, and Nonprofit Organizations in the United States, pp. 32-46 in Powell and Steinberg
Alexis de Tocqueville, “Political Associations in the United States” in Reader
Tuesday, April 15
Legal Foundation for Civil Society in American Law

Reading
Mark McGarvie, “The Dartmouth College Case and the Legal Design of Civil Society”, pp. 91-105 in Friedman and McGarvie (excerpted from book in Reader)

First short paper assignment distributed; due on Friday, April 18

Thursday, April 17
Emergence of the Private Foundation in the United States
A key component of the nonprofit sector is the foundation community, we will examine how the unprecedented growth of wealth at the turn of the 20th century led to the emergence of a new form of philanthropy: the huge, general purpose, private foundation. This week we will examine the aspirations and the challenges represented by these new players in civil society.

Reading
Peter Dobkin Hall, pp. 46-58 (remainder of chapter in Powell and Steinberg)
Andrew Carnegie, “The Gospel of Wealth” in Reader

Tuesday, April 22
Melinda and William Gates Foundation case study

Reading
Gates Foundation case study (in Reader)
II. SIZE AND SCOPE OF CONTEMPORARY GIVING

Today, more than 1.8 million registered nonprofit organizations populate civil society in the United States. These organizations operate in every field of social interest—religion, arts, environment, human services, civil rights, education, among many others. The size, scope, finances, and distributional effects of the U.S. nonprofit sector will be the topic of the next section of class.

Thursday, April 24
Scope of the Modern Nonprofit Sector

Reading
Michael O’Neill, Nonprofit Nation, pp. 8-34 (in Reader)
Elizabeth Boris and Eugene Steuerle, “Scope and Dimensions of the Nonprofit Sector”, pp. 66-75 in Powell and Steinberg.

Tuesday, April 29
Giving and Distribution in the Nonprofit Sector

Reading
Excerpts from GIVING USA reports 2007

III. THEORIES OF THE SECTOR

Contemporary theorists have analyzed the nonprofit sector through the disciplinary perspectives of economics and political science. From the view of economists, the nonprofit sector fills gaps where the market does not perform well. From the perspective of political science, nonprofits compensates for failures in government performance. This class will view the modern nonprofit sector functionally through a range of disciplinary perspectives.

Thursday, May 1
Economic Theories of the Nonprofit Sector

Reading
Richard Steinberg, “Economic Theories of the Nonprofit Sector,” in Powell & Steinberg
Tuesday, May 6
Political Theories of the Nonprofit Sector

Reading
Elisabeth Clemens, “The Constitution of Citizens: Political Theories of Nonprofit Organizations” in Powell & Steinberg
James Douglas, “Political Theories of Nonprofit Organizations” (in Reader)

Second short paper assignment distributed; due on Friday, May 9

PART IV: CASES
We apply theories to real world cases.

Thursday, May 8
Case Study: Civil Society Organizations and Nondiscrimination

Reading
Bob Jones University v. United States, 461 U.S. 574 (1983)

Tuesday, May 13
Charity versus Justice

Reading
Will Kymlicka, “Altruism in Philosophical and Ethical Traditions: Two Views” from Between State and Market (McGill-Queens University Press 2001) in Reader
Michael Walzer, “Socialism and the Gift Relationship,” Dissent Magazine, Fall 1982 in Reader

Thursday, May 15
Civil Society, Nonprofits, and Social Capital

Reading
“Associational Life and the Nonprofit and Philanthropic Sector”, from Democracy at Risk: How Political Choices Undermine Citizen Participation, and What We Can Do About it (Brookings Institution Press, 2005) (Reader)
E.J. Dionne, Jr., “Service, Citizenship, and the New Generation” (Reader) http://muse.jhu.edu/journals/journal_of_democracy/v006/6.1putnam.html

First Draft of Seminar Paper due Monday, May 19
Tuesday, May 20
Case Study: Major Barbara

Reading

Thursday, May 22
New Forms of Philanthropy: Social Entrepreneurship and For-Profit Foundations

Reading
Bruce Sievers, “If Pigs Had Wings: The Appeals and Limits of Venture Philanthropy”

PART V. GLOBAL CIVIL SOCIETY

Tuesday, May 27
Global Civil Society

Reading:
Lester Salamon and Helmut Anheier, “The Nonprofit Sector in Comparative Perspective” in Powell and Steinberg, pp. 89-114
Sunil Khilnani, “The Development of Civil Society” (Reader)

Thursday, May 29
Civil Society in Other Traditions

Reading:
Hasan Hanafi, “Alternative Conceptions of Civil Society: A Reflective Islamic Approach” (Reader)
Richard Madsen, “Confucian Conceptions of Civil Society” (Reader)
Geoffrey Hawthorn, “The promise of civil society in the South” (Reader)

Tuesday, June 3
Concluding Thoughts

Final WIM Seminar Revision due Friday, June 6